Just Us

A little beginning · a free session for two

How to play. Sit together with this sheet and a pen. Take turns reading each moment aloud. For the prediction, each of you ticks your own choice and your guess for the other in secret, then reveal together. Pass any moment you like. There is no score and nothing to win.

1 A little conversation

Start small

Name a small thing that made an ordinary day better recently.

What made that moment yours? Take turns listening before adding your own.

2 Choose & predict

Read the room for two

A free afternoon appears. What would each of you pick?

A · A small adventure outside

B · A cozy afternoon inside

First player

My choice: ◯ A ◯ B

My guess for them: ◯ A ◯ B

Second player

My choice: ◯ A ◯ B

My guess for them: ◯ A ◯ B

Choose privately, then predict the other person. The reveal is a conversation, not a compatibility score.

3 Make something together

Our imaginary café

Build a café together, one detail at a time. Add a name, one thing on the menu, and a wonderfully unnecessary feature.

Alternate details. Keep at least one idea from each person.

4 A little conversation

A little curiosity

What is something you enjoy learning slowly?

Ask one follow-up about what keeps them interested. They can pass.

5 One little drawing

A postcard from today

Take turns adding three strokes to one postcard. Draw an imaginary place inspired by your café.

Share one pen, or describe your strokes aloud if drawing is not comfortable.

6 A plan for two

Leave a door open

Each suggest one low-pressure thing you could do together next. Pick one only if both want to.

You can also simply finish with something you enjoyed about this game.

Keep the good bit.

Each name one thing you want to take from this evening. The full Just Us has nine more sessions, including two for long distance and three milestones, with printable sheets for all of them. Play on one shared screen or on two phones at playatyours.com/games/just-us/.
