A 60–90 minute plan

1. Arrivals Gratitude Guess slips go round with the drinks, about 10 minutes.
2. At the table Pass the Gravy between courses, then Pie or Pass, about 20 minutes.
3. Before pie Family Timeline or Leftover Remix in teams, about 15 minutes.
4. With pie Read the Gratitude Guess slips, then a round of Thankful Alphabet, about 20 minutes.

This free sample has two complete games: Gratitude Guess and Pie or Pass, with 12 cards. The full pack has all six games, 114 cards and lists, a family timeline card and a score sheet. It comes with the host's At Yours Plus: one membership covers the whole table.

How to play

Gratitude Guess

4–20 players · About 10–15 min · Ages 6+, with help to write

Everyone writes one thing they're thankful for. Can the table guess who wrote each one?

You need: A slip and a pen each, and a bowl

1. Hand everyone a slip. Each person secretly writes one thing they're thankful for this year, folds it and drops it in a bowl.
2. The host mixes the slips and reads them aloud, one at a time.
3. On the count of three, everyone points at the person they think wrote it.
4. The writer owns up and says one sentence about why.

Scoring: 1 point for each right guess. The writer scores 2 points if fewer than half the table pointed at them.

Tip: Young children can draw their answer instead, and the host describes the drawing.

Pie or Pass

3–20 players · About 10 min · Ages 5+

Would you eat it, do it or wear it? Thumbs up for Pie, flat hand for Pass. The reader guesses the table first.

You need: The cards, or this page on a phone

1. Pick a reader. The reader draws a card and reads it out, for example "Pumpkin pie for breakfast?"
2. Before anyone answers, the reader guesses how many thumbs will go up.
3. On three, everyone else shows a thumb up for Pie or a flat hand for Pass.
4. Count the thumbs, score, and pass the cards to the left. The next person reads.

Scoring: Reader: 2 points for an exact guess, 1 point if off by one. Anyone who is the only Pie or the only Pass scores 1 point for bravery.

Tip: Keep it moving: one card each, then swap to another game while the plates are cleared.
